

RULING OF INTEREST TO THE OWNERS OF LIQUOR

Prohibition Commissioner Kramer Announces That Legally Purchased Before Sales Were Barred From Being Stored in Rooms in Hotels, Apartment Houses, Boarding Houses and Clubs Used as a Permanent Residence by Owners of the Liquor, But It Can Only Be Consumed on Such Dwelling by the Owner and His Family and Other Fide Guests—Hotels Will Lose "Corkage" Charge

New York, Jan. 12.—Information that owners of liquor will be allowed to consume it only in their homes and that hotels will have to forego the rich harvest they now are reaping, was the substance of a prohibition amendment goes into effect Saturday, was contained in a telegram received here today by William Kramer, chief of the New York police, from Prohibition Commissioner Kramer in Washington.

After stating that liquor legally purchased for consumption is banned may be stored in rooms in hotels, apartment houses, boarding houses, and clubs used as a permanent residence.

"Such liquor is to be used for the personal consumption of the owner and his family and bona fide guests when entertained therein. Liquor can only be consumed in such dwellings, not in club dining rooms, etc."

Federal District Attorney Caffey today said that such a citation would not bring a suit.

He asked Federal Judge Knox to dismiss as "premature" injunction proceedings brought by William G. Street, a railroad man, in an effort to restrain Daniel L. Porter, internal revenue collector, from seizing a choice collection of wines and liquors which he has stored with a safe deposit company in this city.

Mr. Caffey argued that Mr. Porter was unauthorized to make a seizure until after the federal prohibition amendment became effective next Saturday and therefore the matter was not within the jurisdiction of the

Mr. MR. Chetty also urged that Mr. Strickland have his "wet goods" either at his home or a government bonded warehouse, thereby insuring the safe deposit company from possible proceedings on the ground of being a "public nuisance." He admitted that if the liquor was placed in a bonded warehouse, it could not be removed to a private dwelling when the amendment became effective.

Judge Knox directed counsel for both sides to file briefs.
